Rachel Carpenter
INTRINO
Appointed by Senate President Galvano

Rachel is the Chief Executive Officer and a founding partner of Intrinio, a disruptive financial data platform launched in 2016. Based in the company’s Florida office, Rachel has overall responsibility for Intrinio including driving its strategy and position for long term growth. Intrinio’s mission is to use data to power a new generation of innovation in financial services, focusing on reinventing the financial data supply chain.

Prior to founding Intrinio, Rachel became a self-taught web developer and graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Madison with a BBA in both Finance and Management. She is a member of the Forbes Finance Council, XBRL US (eXtensible Business Reporting Language), the Data Coalition (advocating for open, structured data) and a Board Member at CASA (Community Action Stops Abuse), the largest domestic violence shelter in Florida.
